The Glory of the Triumph.

From the Moniteur. In England, as in France the capture of Sebastopol has excited the livelist joy. It was proper indeed that after sharing the dangers and sacrifices of this war, the two people of course, be required to find sentain Porliachould equally take part in the glory of the triumph. From the commencement of the contest, France and England, united in the strict community of views and efforts, have felt a kind of emulation in furnishing, each according to her resources, the means of ensurling success. If France has been enabled to supplied more ships, and has not the less

Owing to the prodigious naval armament of the allied powers their flags dominate over every sea, and forbid it to Russia. The enemy has seen his ships blockaded or burnt his harbor, his sea-board ravaged, his commerce annihilated, his foreign relations destroyed .-From the Sea of Azoff to the White Sea, from the Baltic to Kamschatka, Russia is imprisoned by our fleets. While the courage of our soldiers were triumphing over the desperate resistance of the Russian army, and combined squadrons were destroying his stores of provisions, and intercepting his communications, at the very time that they were maintaining abundance in the allied armies and conveying to them every fresh reinforcements. Our maritime resources would hardly have sufficed for the transport of our troops and enormous quantity of munitions required for such a war, at a distance of 800 leagues from our country. The English Admiralty placed at the disposal of France 50 vessels of her royal and merchant service, in which we have conveyed to the Crimea more than 40,000 men of our troops, together with 2,000 horses, and 700 tons of our material. Every one knows if besides that Bomarsund fell beneath the blows of our soldiers, it was chiefly the English navy that conveyed them thither.

In all the phases of this war, at the Alma and at Inkermann, as at Bomarsund, and Sweaborg, the armies and crew of England and France have mingle their blood and fought with bravery for the common cause. At the Tchernaya our allies hastened up to support us, as we hastened towards them at Balakla.

P., occupied the Chair, Professor Buckland discharging the duties of Secretary. The first autiect for discussion, was the location of the next Show. A strong feeling existed between the eastern and western delegates on this subject-the east being in favor of Kingston, and the west, for Brantford. After considerable discussion, it was decided that the Show for 1856 should be held at 'King-

At a subsequent Meeting the following, gentlemen were elected office-bearers for the ensuing year, viz :- Baron de Longueuil, President, Geo. Alexander, Esq., first Vice-President, B. B. Stevenson, Esq., M. P. P., second Vice President, and R. L., Denisont Esq., Treasurer. The choice for President first fell on W. Niles, Esq., M. P. Hed he been an old favorite, the case might be materially altered, but as it was, he took of the arguments used, The Speaker was it for granted they were alive to the cause. He would in the outset state that he came to advance the interests of the Lague ; but by this remark he did not wish it to be inferred; that he came to throw cold water hopen any institution heretofore established. He regaroffspring of temperance organizations, in Some people hold altogether to moral austin to effect a reform, while others go for the Maine Law. There are many too that believe that fails, penitentiaries, Lunatic Asylums, &c. quietly take their ease-imagine the law of itself capable of working wonders. This is a grand mistake. On the other side of the lines, at the present time, in those States where tween the temperance people and the Rum interests is now being waged. In many of the States the friends of the law thought that the beginning. He believed that if we in Canada had the Law, and then let the Public Speakers, the Lecturers, the Ministers cease their exertions it would be of little avail. Temparancemen should stand by their colors; and by so doing ere long Canada might boast of a Maine Law. (Cheers.) Some looked at the Maige Law as an old truth, -so were the Scriptures. They had been preached 1,800 years; but the people of this day listened to their promulgation with the same fervor they did then, and they inspire now the same lively joy they did then. The Maine Law simply meant the closing up of distilleries, &cc. It die not hinder the manufacture for all ordinary purposes. The measure was a bold one, and we should carefully examine i ita its merits before forming a conclusion: it demanded the closing up of the various places where alcokol was now manufactured. Probibition however, was no new thing; for just in proportion, as society developed itself, prohibition was urged. Man might be regarded as living in too states - civilized and uncivilized. The moment he leaves the one and enters the other he becomes prohibited. In proof of this, the speaker referred to the difference in the dress, word by the two sexes; and also to the law of burial, which declares it shall be done publicly. Society demands this for the general good; otherwise numberless murders might be committed, and the murderer might escape punishment. In uncivilized society in the back woods, a man might bory his infant under his house floor; but this would although the child whether dead or alive-is in nearly all the classes of caule were much kis, Man must conform to Society. Loxiga, 15th September, 1855. DR. J. W. KERMOTT, Dean Sin, - Being informed that you are preparing your Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam, in order that the public at large may appreciate its virtues, I cheerfully submit to you the following statement of facts; use them as you think proper. In the Autumn of 1852 my oldest son was attacked with pain in the cheet, shoulders and eide, accompanied with a very severe cough, We use every means within our power, employed the mos skilful physicians, and after their vain attempts, had recourse to some of the most popular nostrums for the cure of consumption, but all to no purpose, he gradually grow worse, In 1853 he became so feeble and emaciated as to be obliged to keep his bed, his with every description of Pottery it For Sale cheap feet and legs became swollen, perspired profusely at nights, expectorated dark fortid corruption, bad chills and fever alternately, in fact all who knew or naw him pronounced him in the last state of consumption, and a victim for the grave. At his own request we sent for you, but without the elightest hope of re-

Read the following from M. Anderson, Esq., Unyor of London :

LONDON, Feb, 14, 1855. To Da. KERMOTT

DEAR SIR,-Your Vegetable Tonic Mixture, and Mandrake Pills, have had a most salutary effect I was for several years troubled with Dyspepsie, and Indigestion, during which time I tried many remedies, consulted the most popular phyricians at home and abroad, but no purpose. Two years since. I tried your Pills and Bitters; they did in my case all they are resommenced to do; since which time I have enjoyed perfect health.

I would, therefore for the good of the community cheerfully recommend your medicines as all they are represented to be. I am, yours, &c.,

M. ANDERSON, Mayor of London, C. W.

London, 30th January, 1855. Dr. J. W. KERMOTT.

DEAU Sin,-Permit me to express my heartfelt gratitude to you for the miraculous cure performed on me. I know of no way by which I Oats, Peas, Potatoes, &c., delivered at his Store-Combs, Stationery, Perfumery, Common Jew- let. To be able to spell correctly the words of an ine from the margin of the grave and restored me to perfect health; contrary to my own expectations, can sufficiently recompense you for having taken house or the Railway Station, Newmarket. to perfect health; contrary to my own expectations, Grammar, so as to pane an easy sentence in contrary to the very laws of nature. I was first taken with common cold, which terminated into what my 3rd to work readily questions in the first four rules physicians called Chronic Bronchitis. Very soon of Arithmetic, Simple and Compound, and they informed me that it had extended to the lungs, that Iwas a prey to consumption, and leff me without 4th. To be acquainted with the definitions and a hope of recovery. I expectorated corruption, had a constant pain in my chest, perspired profusely at nights, -in short, became so reduced as to be unable to rise from the bed for the period of three months. It was not until we had given up all hopes of recovery that we were persuaded to apply to you, and even then many of my friends were opposed to my taking medicine without any prospect of receiving the least benefit. I commenced, however, taking your Pulmonary Balsam, in connection with your Tonic Mixture and Pills, and thankful that I am able to assert to you and the world, that I was restored to perfect health.

These are facts -- appropriate them as you think fit. I would merely suggest that you lay them before the public, that others may have the opportunity of doing likewise. I am, dear sir, most respectfully yould.
